

Webinar January 31st Regarding EPA and OSHA Trends for 2017 – A 1-hour webinar is being offered by AudioSolutionZ on Tuesday, January 31, 2017 at 1:00 PM EST that will address insights on EPA and OSHA trends for 2017 with the new Trump Administration. Expert speaker, Vince Marchesani, Ph.D., will be presenting. He is the president and CEO of Environmental, Health and Safety International, LLC. He has developed Environmental Health and Safety (EHS) performance improvement and crisis management systems, and has published numerous papers on EHS topics.

Read More.....[\[link should take you to the WMA webinar page with full text about webinar\]](#)

Session Highlights:

- The relationship between legislation and regulation and the relationship between federal and state/provincial rules
- Possible changes in EPA and OSHA as a result of a new president and administration
- EHS Management systems as a new path forward away from a command and control management approach
- ISO 14001 new requirements
- TSCA new requirements
- Electronic reporting
- Ways to keep up with changing requirements

Tools and Resources:

- Knowing and addressing the differences between legislation and regulation and where and how to impact them.
- Insights on how to implement an environmental management system.
- How to implement the changes to ISO 14001.
- The identification of ways of gaining access to information on new and modified regulatory requirements.
- How to prepare for new EHS requirements

Session Benefits:

- Get the knowledge to effectively address EHS issues and requirements.
- Learn to implement a management system that improves the effectiveness of your EHS program.
- Find out how an EHS management system can improve your company bottom line.
- Know what is expected from the re-authorized TSCA.
- Understand how changes to the ISO 14001 standard will benefit your company.

To register please visit AudioSolutionZ