WMA’S WORLD HEADQUARTERS IS CLOSING TEMPORARILY DUE TO COVID-19,
WE WILL CONTINUE TO SERVE THE MILLWORK INDUSTRY OFF-SITE

Effective today, April 2, at 4 p.m. EDT, World Millwork Alliance's headquarters is temporarily closing to protect the health and safety of our staff and our community during the COVID-19 pandemic - however please be assured that we will continue to serve you, our valued membership, off-site from our home offices.

As we continue to implement business-forward value, we again emphasize that we are ramping up WMA’s member resources online to keep all of us connected, including:

- WMA Association & Industry News delivered to your in-box. From the latest on the impact of COVID-19 on our industry and businesses worldwide to important economic and government updates, we’ve got your interests covered.

- WMA-curated webinars, podcasts and other real-time industry and business resources, all brought together in a consolidated briefing and emailed to you. Be sure to watch the webinars and listen to the podcasts.

- WMA Online Education Courses will continue and are available at a special discounted rate for bulk credit hours April 6-30. WMA offers more than 40 modules focused on the millwork industry, selling, business practices, workplace safety and more. Click or tap here to access.

- WMA’s millwork industry discussion forum at LinkedIn provides a safe space for you to engage in frank and open discussions with your millwork peers on the issues that matter most to your business. Click or tap here to learn more.

My team and I will continue to apprise members of relevant news and information based on best practices and/or professional and public health resources like those from the CDC. Please check WMA News Central online for news and updates. We will also communicate through WMA Industry & Association News emails and other appropriate means.

While we are all having to make tough decisions as a result of this fast-moving threat, WMA is standing with our members, volunteer leaders, industry partners and other industry stakeholders. Please do not hesitate to reach out with questions and concerns. All of us here at WMA are dedicated to serving our millwork community. Let us know how we can help you, and how you’re responding to the current challenges presented by COVID-19. Contact us.

For those of us who are distanced from colleagues and friends in the industry, please stay in touch with each other and offer each other support in this challenging time. Together with you, we will weather this crisis – and, as we have done before when faced with mountains to climb, our industry will come out stronger on the other side.

Thank you for your membership and support.
Be safe.
