Millpar Announces New CEO

Millpar is proud to announce Ettore Giacomet Basile as its new CEO. With over 8 years of leadership experience, Ettore has been serving as the COO of Millpar since last year, playing a key role in the strategic management of the company's operations.

This planned succession marks the transition of leadership from Mr. Norton Fabris, who played a pivotal role as CEO over the past few years. Under his guidance, Millpar achieved significant milestones and solidified its position in the market. Ettore's leadership will continue the company's long-term vision, maintaining its commitment to excellence in wood mouldings and millwork products, while driving a sustainable future for the industry.

Millpar is ready to embrace the challenges of the sector and seize new opportunities in a constantly evolving market. With this well-structured transition, the company moves forward with confidence in its path of continuous growth, maintaining its position of prominence and innovation in the industry.
